

Telecommunications regulatory developments and its new horizons

Workshop contribution on “Broken concepts - the Australian communications legislative landscape”

IX International Regulatory Workshop
Commission for Communications Regulation CRC
Bogota Colombia

Giles Tanner
General Manager
Australian Communications and Media Authority

A decorative graphic at the bottom of the slide consisting of several overlapping, flowing waves in various colors: yellow, purple, blue, green, orange, and red. The waves are layered and overlap each other, creating a sense of movement and depth.

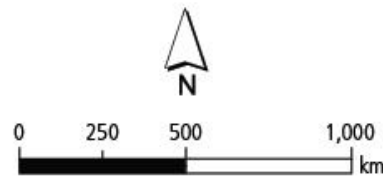

communicating | facilitating | regulating

ARIA+ (2006) 1 km grid

-  Major cities (0–0.20)
-  Inner regional (> 0.20–2.40)
-  Outer regional (> 2.40–5.92)
-  Remote (> 5.92–10.53)
-  Very remote (> 10.53–15.00)

Data Sources:
 GISCA, The University of Adelaide
 Australian Government Geoscience Australia, & Australian Bureau of Statistics

The trilogy – framing issues for any revised regulatory scheme

Who and what

- Broken Concepts
- Examined the building blocks of current legislation/regulation to build case for change for digital, IP-based communications and content

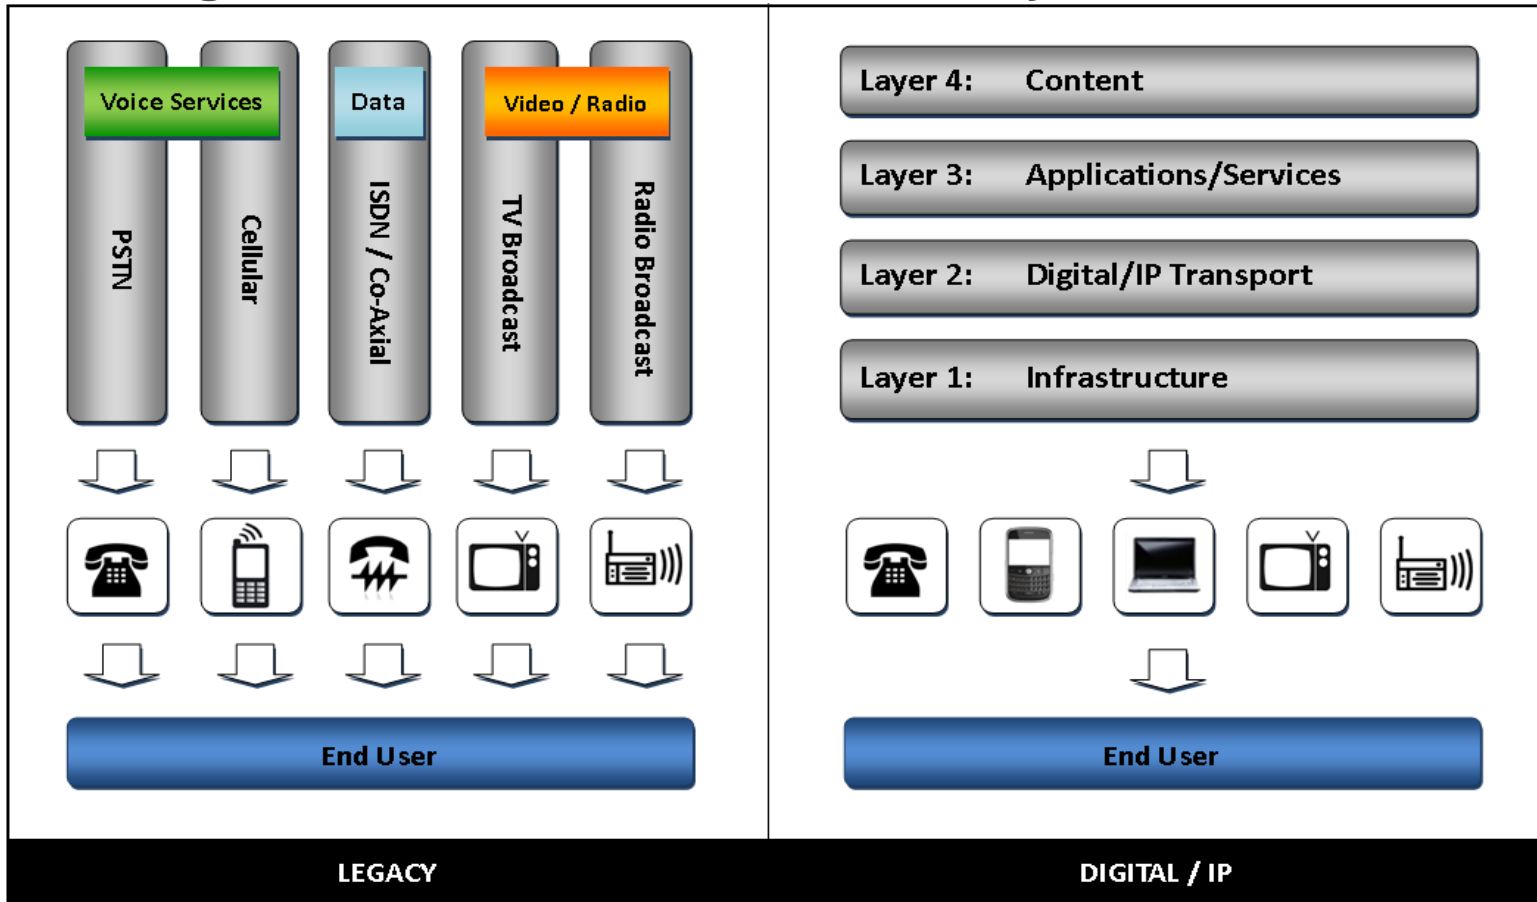

Why

- Enduring Concepts
- Enduring public interest rationale describing why intervene in communications and media

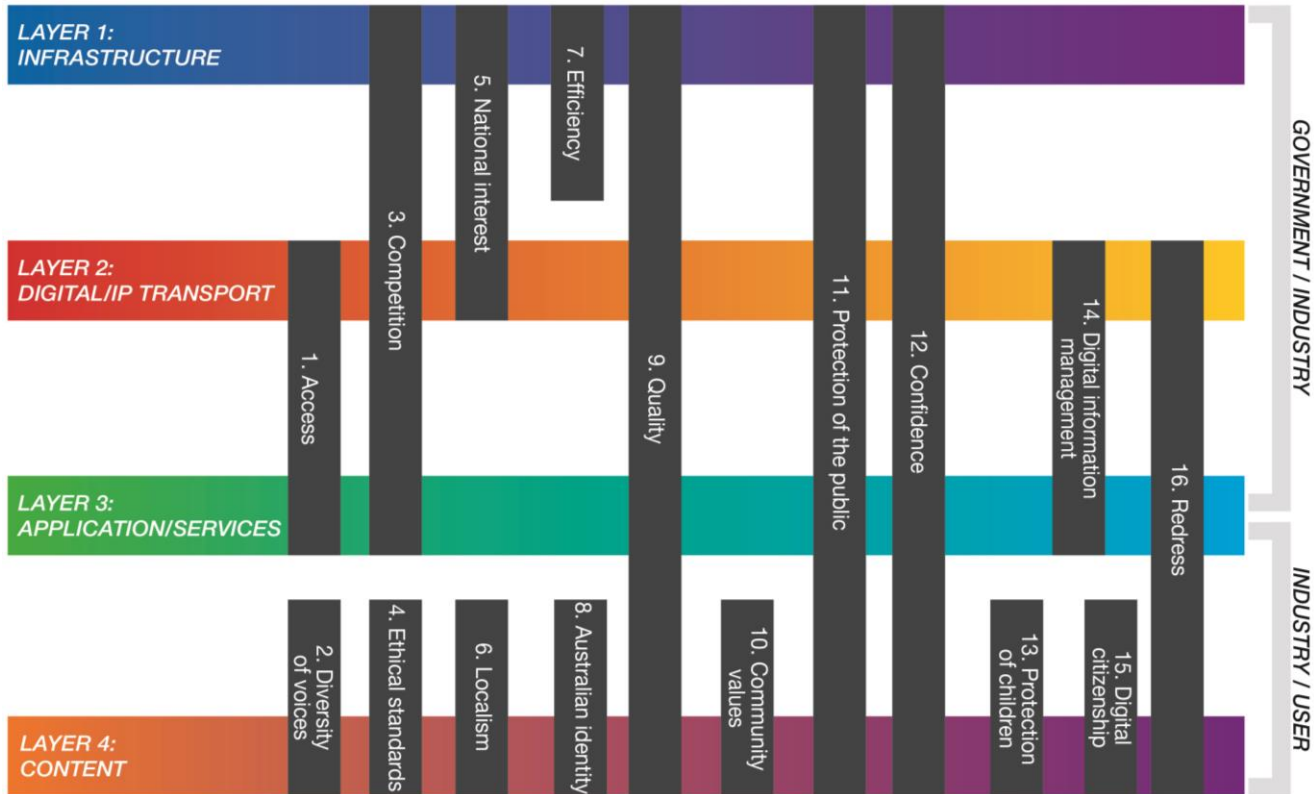

How

- Connected citizens
- Regulatory strategies and tools

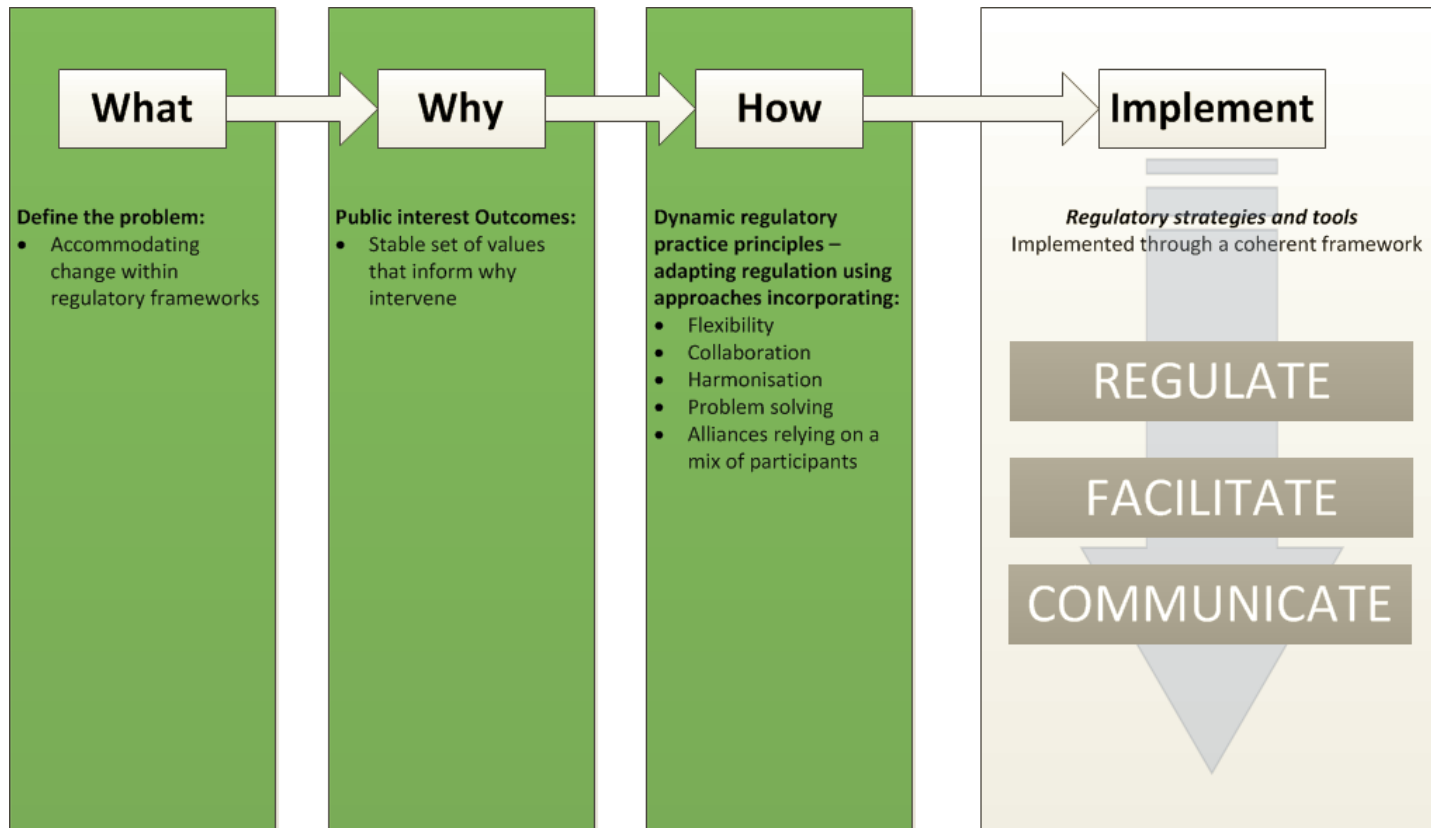

Convergence in networks and service layers

Enduring concepts and the layered-technology approach

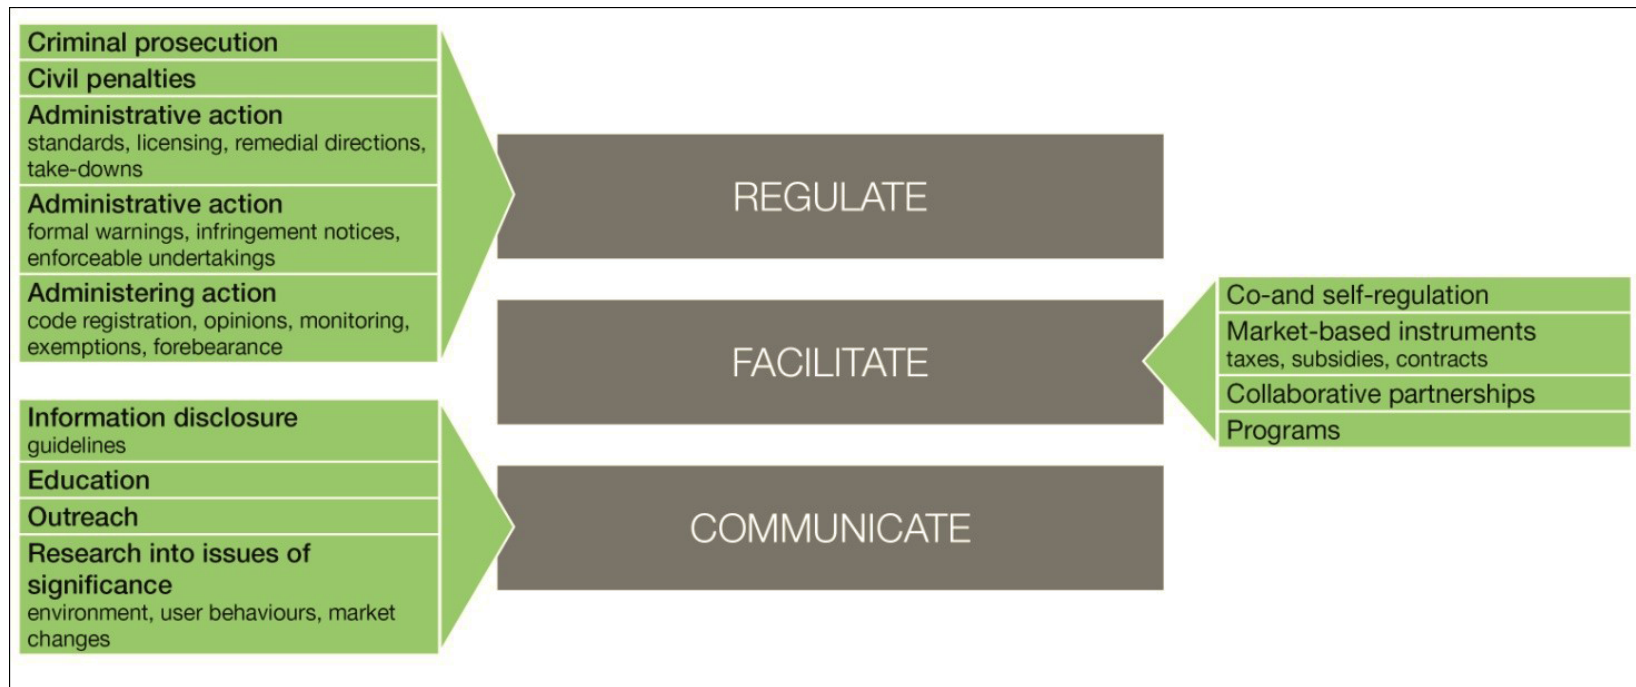

Achieving public interest outcomes in the networked environment

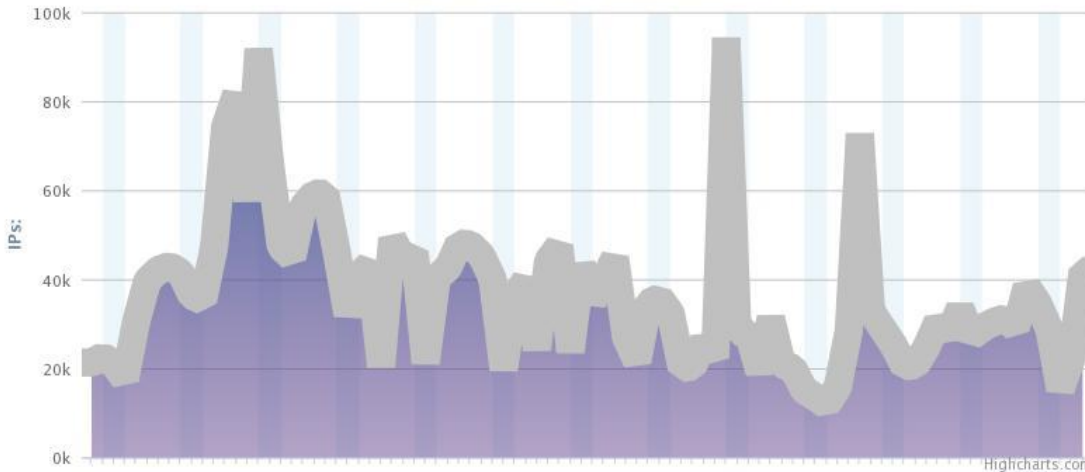

Regulatory tools and strategies

> Different styles for different problems

Australian Internet Security Initiative

AISI reported daily incidents
Source: Australian Communications and Media Authority

AISI reported daily incidents per compromise type
Source: Australian Communications and Media Authority

